Riverland grapes at risk during vintage as heatwave continues...

DRY WHITES AND DRY REDS

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A SENIOR Riverland winemaker says grapes currently being harvested for vintage are vulnerable to damage from a heatwave being experienced across the region.

Current forecasted temperatures for the Riverland are set to remain above at least 37C until Tuesday, with a high of 41 set for tomorrow.

Renmark-based Angove Family Winemakers chief winemaker Tony Ingle said the excessive heat could cause grapes on vines to appear ready for harvest without the necessary character development for quality wine.

Lake Bonney Jetty closed

MADISON EASTMOND

BERRI Barmera Council has announced on Monday the Lake Bonney Jetty is to be closed until further notice due to vandalism.

Asking for patience from the local community, the council announced the Lake Bonney Jetty would “reopen... once it is safe to do so”.

Former Berri Barmera councillor and well-known local woman, Rosemary Gower, defended the council from community complaints against the closure.

“The Berri Barmera Council has invested a lot of time and money into Barmera,” she said in a Facebook post.

“The council is currently seeking funding to have the jetty (expanded), despite the enormous cost.

“Lake Bonney is the gem of the Riverland and has been for many years. The problem is that there is only one inlet and outlet to the lake and it should have been rectified many years ago.

“The decision to close Lake Bonney during the recent floods was a government department decision, not the Berri Barmera Council who took the brunt of the criticism from the public.

“It would seem that vandals are responsible for causing the council to have to close the jetty, which has been a particularly popular place to fish and swim from over the Christmas holidays. Perhaps you (all) should point your finger at them.”

Murtho records fruit fly outbreak

THE Department of Primary Industries and Regions (PIRSA) detected fruit fly in Murtho last month, bringing the total number of Riverland outbreaks since December 2020 to 56.

A new Queensland fruit fly outbreak was declared on 29 January following the detection of fruit fly larvae in a plum in Murtho.

“PIRSA field officers have been on the ground since day one to get both of these outbreaks under control,” Mr Size said.

PIRSA fruit fly officers are working in affected areas to apply organic bait and check for signs of fruit fly. Residents and businesses are being contacted with information about the outbreak.

“To date, field officers have deployed thousands of traps across the Riverland. More traps mean that while we detect fruit fly more often, our tireless field officers can use that knowledge in their work to find and eradicate this pest,” he said.

“Remember to pick your fruit and vegetables, collect any fallen produce off the ground, check it for any signs of fruit fly and call the Fruit Fly Hotline if you suspect any signs of fruit fly on your property.”

PIRSA will continue to release sterile flies at Lindsay Point, Loxton, Murtho, New Residence, and Pyap until 23 February.

Riverland grapes at risk during vintage as heatwave continues... Dry whites and dry reds

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

A SENIOR Riverland winemaker says grapes currently being harvested for vintage are vulnerable to damage from a heatwave being experienced across the region.

Current forecasted temperatures for the Riverland are set to remain above at least 37C until Tuesday, with a high of 41 set for tomorrow.

Renmark-based Angove Family Winemakers chief winemaker Tony Ingle said the excessive heat could cause grapes on vines to appear ready for harvest without the necessary character development for quality wine.

“We’ll see a super-charged ripening, and we’ll get dehydration,” Mr Ingle said.

“Dehydration is not necessarily the same as ripening. We’ll lose a lot of acid, but we won’t see a lot of the phenolic flavours ripen.

“There’s the potential that we’ll pick (the grapes) at a certain baumé – or sweetness – but the fruit isn’t quite ready yet.

“We’ve got to be really careful, for quality instances, that we don’t pick too early, even though the sugar numbers are correct.”

Mr Ingle said higher temperatures in the evening could also impede the quality of wines made in the 2025 vintage.

“Usually it’s 10C to 15C at night, but for the next couple weeks it’s going to be 22C and 23C,” he said.

“We’re very lucky that we’ve picked (nearly) all our whites. Those who haven’t picked their whites yet will be seeing a lot more issues.

“Winemaking is all about control, and the higher the temperature is, the quicker chemical reactions happen. We want to keep those temperatures down to slow chemical reactions, and one of those would be oxidation and spoilage.

“The lower the temperature the better.” Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said any loss of grapes due to the heat would add further financial pressure to Riverland growers.

“This season has again thrown a range of challenges at growers, from commodity prices to frost and now extreme heat,” Mr Whetstone said.

“The excessive heat will reduce yield, further compounding the challenges of being a wine grape grower in the Riverland this vintage.”

Mr Ingle said regular sampling of grapes, and communication with their contracted winery, needed to be a priority for local growers.

“There will be a lower crop this year, and we’re seeing that across the board,” he said.

“There is a reduction in yield right across the region. In fact I would say the whole of South Australia is low, so what fruit we do bring in really needs to be correct.

“(Growers) need to be out there sampling and making sure they’ve got the right numbers into the winery. Make sure you’ve got up-to-date baumés in the winery, tell them what you’ve got and make sure you sample twice a week.”

Cheryle awarded an OAM

MADISON EASTMOND

GURRA Gurra woman Cheryle Pedler was awarded with a Medal of the Order of Australia (OAM) as part of the 2025 Australia Day Honours last month, with her life-long service to the Riverland, state, and country recognised and celebrated.

Announced as an OAM recipient on Australia Day, Ms Pedler, 52, said being awarded felt “surreal”.

“I feel really blessed that someone had nominated me for the OAM,” she said.

“It was very unexpected, so I was in disbelief.”

Attributing her passion of volunteering to her mother, Ms Pedler said a lifetime of selfless service has allowed her to be “more fulfilled” and to “experience things (she) otherwise would have missed”.

“My mother set the example for me,” she said.

“I have very early memories of helping mum when she was volunteering and she (fundamentally) taught me you can get so much joy from helping others.

“Volunteering is a real meaningful way of contributing to your community, as well as growing (as a person).”

Born in the Adelaide Hills, Ms Pedler was a committee member and Rural Ambassador for the Uraidla and Summertown Horticultural and Floricultural Show Society in 1991 and 1992, ADDICT Cave Diving Club secretary during the mid-1990s, Australian Universities Underwater Intervarsity committee secretary in 1994, St Peters Collegiate Girl’s School chapel volunteer from 1996 to 1999, and was a SA State Emergency Service Metro South Unit

“Lion’s do such amazing things,” she said,

“Whether it be environmental, a humanitarian effort, or health research, the clubs fund substantial work that gives back locally, but also has ripples and impact all over the world.”

Opportunities Ms Pedler has taken through the organisation have also included Lions Australia long range development committee member since 2018, and the position of cabinet secretaries co-ordinator from 2019 to 2020.

“We are all very proud of her and believe this is well deserved,” a collective statement from Berri Lions Club said.

“Local Lions Clubs are not just existing on their own but are part of a district, a national and international service organisation.

“Cheryle does a huge amount of work behind the scenes, keeping us all connected.

“She is well known and appreciated nationally and internationally in the Lion’s organisation for her selfless contributions.

“The amount of time she invests into Lions work is huge and the Berri Lions Club congratulate her on her accomplishments and achievements.”

An extension of her work with the Lions, Ms Pedler’s professional life has also featured extensive volunteering.

‘No conclusive evidence’ of bee poisoning, says PIRSA

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

PIRSA says “no conclusive evidence has been provided indicating that Naturalure has caused bee deaths” in the Riverland, despite a local apiarist’s ongoing claims his bees died due to poisoning.

Paringa-based beekeeper Robert ‘Robbie’ Johnstone is encouraging locals to report any potential adverse impacts from PIRSA’s spraying program – aimed at eradicating fruit fly from the region – to the Australian Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority (APVMA).

“In 2020 PIRSA were granted an off-label permit to use Naturalure in the Riverland Fruit Fly Eradication Program,” Mr Johnstone claims in a letter to the editor in today’s Murray Pioneer.

“Since that time Riverland residents have made numerous complaints to PIRSA about adverse events occurring after PIRSA sprayed on, or near their properties.

“It appears that PIRSA have not been able to stop these adverse events from occurring, as residents of the Riverland are still being impacted...”

Mr Johnstone in September 2023 lost numerous bee hives, which he suspects was due to accidental poisoning.

However, PIRSA says “extensive investigations” into Riverland bee deaths failed to show any link to poisoning from Naturalure.

“PIRSA only applies fruit fly bait that has been approved by the (APVMA),” PIRSA said in a statement.

“Naturalure is a certified organic bait and is the same solution that is used on organic farms. All use of Naturalure by PIRSA is applied according to approved label directions, and is applied in a manner which minimises the chance of drift and off-target impact.

“PIRSA takes all concerns over the impact of baiting operations seriously and has conducted extensive investigations into unexplained bee deaths in the Riverland region in 2023 and 2024, including Mr Johnstone’s.

“No conclusive evidence has been provided indicating that Naturalure has caused bee deaths, and investigation by an independent authority came to the same conclusion.

“PIRSA will continue to work with the apia industry to ensure our baiting program poses no risks to bee hives in the area.”

Staying safe in the sun

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

RIVERLANDERS seeking to escape the region’s current heatwave have been urged to prioritise safety when swimming or boating in the Murray River.

SAPOL last weekend issued a warning for locals and visitors to the Riverland regarding river safety, ahead of the Dash 4 Cash and Dinghy Derby events that were held in Renmark.

The warning came following a number of recent incidents on the Murray River, including the hospitalisation of a swimmer who was struck by a boat, near Mannum, on 28 January.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said “it’s vital that river users practice safe river etiquette and understand the importance of being smart around water”.

“I am very concerned by the bad behaviour we’re seeing across social media by river users,” Mr Whetstone said.

“People must understand how dangerous the river can be if not respected. This boating behaviour is unacceptable and we need to drastically improve river safety understanding.

“Better education and the presence of marine safety officers would go a long way to remind people that safety is of paramount importance while enjoying the river this summer.

“I urge people to respect the river and other river users, while also being aware of safety obligations, river rules and understanding the impact of boats on other vessels and the environment.”

Murray Mallee Local Service Area Officer in Charge, Acting Superintendent Brent Wilson, said an observer in a boat, in Morgan, tested positive for drugs during checks conducted over the Australia Day long weekend.

“Unfortunately... we’ve (recently) seen a number of incidents in the river, with one swimmer remaining in hospital after being hit by a boat at Mannum,” Acting Supt Wilson said.

“We want everyone to have a good time enjoying what the river has to offer, but we also want to remind people to ensure they have the right equipment on board, and don’t drink and drive – that includes observers, skiers and wakeboarders.

“Water Operations and local police were out in force over the long weekend, with patrols from Cadell through to the Big Bend.”

Royal Life Saving Australia’s Jake Culkin said having a water safety plan was vital for families spending time near the river.

“Royal Life Saving Australia is calling on everyone in the Riverland to make water safety a priority by considering the risks and preparing before heading out,” Mr Culkin said.

“Drowning prevention starts with you. We know this is a critical time of year to focus on drowning prevention and water safety, with 41 per cent of all drowning deaths occurring during the summer months and the highest numbers recorded in December and January.

“Whether you’re planning a day at the river (or) an afternoon by the pool... the choices you make before you leave can save lives.”

THE YEARS GO BY

Final fruit fly hurdles?

IF it could be described as anything, the Riverland’s battle against fruit fly could certainly be labelled as a war of attrition.

The announcement of a new fruit fly outbreak, and a sixth in the Murtho area – as detailed in today’s edition of the Pioneer – may stir nerves among some in the community that the eradication program may slightly be missing the mark in some areas.

As with all wars though, there are inevitably unintended and unwanted casualties, and although Paringa-based apiarist Robbie J’s first reports regarding the loss of his hives – due to what he would vehemently argue was an accidental poisoning – his efforts to see some compensation from PIRSA have hardly lost any intensity.

PIRSA quite correctly point out that any conclusive evidence linking the loss of hives in the Riverland to the use of Naturalure in the eradication program has yet to be provided, however other beekeepers that have seen similar impacts may have yet to make their concerns heard.

In the early stages of a new year, once again the community perception surrounding the efforts to achieve eradication seem somewhat mixed.

When discussing the issue with those in the industry, confidence is certainly there that not only will the Riverland be rid of fruit fly, this may happen within the 2025 calendar year.

On the other hand, there are those, who are more cynically minded, that would say the battle is lost, and we should resign ourselves to the necessity of having to live with endemic fruit fly, such as is seen in a region like Sunraysia.

However, would this still not be too early to be throwing our arms down in defeat? A bit over four years is still a relatively short amount of time, and it is still easy to remember – without restrictions – being able to take a few oranges on a road trip to Waikerie for weekend footy, or sharing the best of a summer tomato crop with our neighbours – and not just the ones inside green zones.

The battle against fruit fly has forced Riverlanders to change so many community behaviours surrounding fresh produce, which were probably previously being taken for granted, and more importantly have been a multi-year financial burden to our local primary producers, and therefore the region as a whole.

Therefore, co-operation between local growers, PIRSA and the wider Riverland community is likely just as important as ever, with the goal of complete fruit fly eradication just sitting in the region’s proverbial wind-shield.

The long-lost Meyer Cup from 1953 has recently ‘turned up’. The South Australian Cricket Association Country Carnival is played in Adelaide by SA country representative teams each February. In 1925, 100 years ago, Ashbourne cricket stalwart Harry Meyer instigated the Carnival and presented a silver cup for the winners, which the ‘River district’ won. Murray Districts, often with Riverland players, including many from Loxton, won seven successive championships from 1947-1953, and five of six to 1977. However, the team has not won since. Some time ago the cup was found lamenting at a Port Elliott market and an unknown person salvaged and stored it for a time, then handed it to a cricket administer who subsequently relayed it to Greg Graetz, Loxton-based recent manager of the Murray Districts team. The cup bore three victory shields, indicating Murray District wins from 1951-1953. In that era, winning three carnivals meant you kept the cup. So, the cup was duly handed to Renmark’s Arch Grosvenor, then long-time team manager. Having made some enquiries, the LoxStory team recently tracked the long-missing cup. It seems that Arch remained its custodian when he retired to Victor Harbor, and on his passing, the cup transferred to Arch’s children, one of whom it seems donated the cup to the Port Elliott market. Interestingly, the original cup from 1926 has also been located, in the care of one of Arch’s daughters. A happy find. WORDS/ PHOTOS: Peter Magarey, assisted by photo journalist Peter Argent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reporting adverse experiences

TO the people of the Riverland who feel that the spraying of Naturalure by PIRSA on or near their properties has impacted on them in a negative way and that PIRSA is ignoring their complaints, there is a remedy.

The Australian Pesticide and Veterinary Medicines Authority (APVMA) has a site which allows people who have suffered an adverse experience event involving a registered chemical to contact the APVMA and provide details of the event. The APVMA will then thoroughly investigate the complaint.

In 2020 PIRSA were granted an off-label permit to use Naturalure in the Riverland Fruit Fly Eradication Program. Since that time Riverland residents have made numerous complaints to PIRSA about adverse events occurring after PIRSA sprayed on, or near their properties. It appears that PIRSA have not been able to stop these adverse events from occurring, as residents of the Riverland are still being impacted by PIRSA’s eradication program.

Recently I contacted the APVMA and enquired as to whether they would consider revoking PIRSA’s off-label use of Naturalure until it is proven that the use of Naturalure as a spray does not pose a risk to pollinators, and other forms of life in the Riverland environment.

The APVMA replied stating that I go to the APVMA website and make an Adverse Experience Report.

The APMVA also asked that I encourage anyone who has had an adverse experience emanating from the use of Naturalure during the Fruit Fly Eradication Program to make an Adverse Experience Report to them.

If people find the website too difficult to navigate, then I suggest they either send a letter or an email to me and I will forward it on to the APVMA.

My address is R. Johnstone, PO Box 32, Paringa 5340, and email is (kunadale@hotmail.com).

I am not asking the APVMA to stop the use of Naturalure Gel, as it poses very little risk to bees.

I am asking that the permit for the off-label use of Naturalure, by adding water to Naturalure Gel which turns it into a spray, be ceased until it is proven that it poses no risk to pollinators and the environment.

In closing, I find it surprising that despite complaints to PIRSA by residents of the Riverland that their spraying campaign appeared to be impacting off-target elements, PIRSA appear not to have made an Adverse Experience Report to the APVMA, and did not advise Riverland residents of their right to do this.

I would also like to remind residents of South Australia that the opposition parties tried to force an enquiry into the Riverland Fruit Fly Eradication Program, but could not muster the numbers needed to do so. Such an enquiry would have addressed this problem and other problems such as backyard invasions by people who displayed lack of communication skills.

Power play points to an election

WE have just been told that inflation is down and one of the reasons is reduction in power costs. That’s mainly because the Federal Government is using our money to give us rebates on our power bills.

Then we have media articles advising us that our energy bills are up and the cost of generation is up.

But then there’s the unknown ‘UFE’ (unaccounted for energy) item that is to appear on your account on 1 March.

South Australia’s $1.84 mw/ hr rate is over three times more than the second highest rate.

What happens when our self-funded rebates stop?

There’s definitely an election coming.

Thoughts on Australia Day

ANOTHER Australia Day has been and gone, along with its attendant flag waving, culture wars, and general display of ignorance of history.

We appear to be the only former British colony that celebrates the day of colonisation, rather than the date of liberation or of creating an independent nation. None of the other former colonies celebrate the arrival of their equivalent of the First Fleet.

Canada Day celebrates the creation of the Canadian Confederation in 1867 when the former territories amalgamated into a single nation. Sound familiar?

Waitangi Day celebrates the signing of a treaty between the British Crown and the Maori Chiefs. While New Zealand was still a colony at the time, it was a step away from being ruled from New South Wales and an acknowledgement that the country was inhabited long before white people arrived.

India is an ancient nation and celebrates Independence Day, but only since 1947.

Pakistan celebrates the adoption of the Pakistan Resolution in 1940, even though, like India, independence wasn’t gained until 1947.

And, of course, the USA, Ireland (except the northern bit), South Africa, Zimbabwe, Malaysia, Grenada, and many, many more have all chosen a day to recognise the cutting of apron strings. Except Australia.

Here, in the greatest nation on Earth, we celebrate the founding of Australia on a date when Australia didn’t exist, when the word Australia was yet to be coined. A date when the land-mass was not fully mapped, a lot of it still Terra Incognito.

Perhaps in the 50 weeks left until the next outbreak of jingoism and flag waving we could reflect on why we are so reluctant to stand on our own two feet, to cut the ties with the motherland, and become a fully fledged nation and take our rightful place amongst all the other adults of the world.

On Ruby Hunter’s local connections

THERE have been calls from some sections (‘Disappointment at island decision’, letters, 21/8/24) to rename Goat Island, downstream of Lock 5, to Ruby Hunter Island, on the basis that she was born there.

Ruby’s life story is indeed remarkable. She overcame the extremes of disadvantage to carve out a successful music career with her life-long partner, Archie Roach.

She deserves to be acknowledged for her achievements and her humanity.

However, I don’t think Ruby was born on Goat Island. I have lived on the land overlooking Goat Island since 1938, and spent many hours in my youth playing and fishing there. In my living memory, beginning in about 1945 when I was 8 years old, until now, no one has lived on the island.

Ruby was born in October 1955. That year, 1955, the year before the 1956 flood, was also a flood year, and in October of 1955 the island was flooded, so to me it seems very unlikely that she was born there. This is independently verifiable.

The August 2024 letter to the editor included the following: “Currently the island is named Goat Island, and is one of a number listed around the Riverland. Apparently it was gazetted Goat Island, although it was never known as that when Ruby’s family lived there”.

To my knowledge the piece of land has always been known as Goat Island (gazetted before 1894) and I know of no other name that has ever been used. I wonder if there is some confusion with another of the “number listed”?

There is a lot of conjecture about where Ruby was born. She is described on the Victorian Government website (www.firstpeoplesrelations.vic.gov.au/ruby-hunter) as being a proud Ngarrindjeri woman, born in 1955 near the Murray River, in the Coorong region, of South Australia. She is also described variously as being born on a billabong near Paringa, at Katarapko, and at Murray Bridge.

The notion that she was born on Goat Island seems to have emanated in 2022 from a report on the ABC, but the factual basis of this report remains unclear.

facebook/themurraypioneer

murraypioneer.com.au

There has been an attempt to conflate the many achievements in Ruby's life with the renaming of Goat Island as a result of her being born there as justification. I think it is clear she was not born there, because it was under-water at the time.

What is the evidence that Ruby was born on Goat Island? It is incumbent on any proponent to provide this detail, if such evidence exists, so that the best decision about renaming can be made.

Similarly, the idea that the island is a monument to a feral animal is a stretch. The goat has become feral, but at the time the name was gazetted, it was not so. Goat Island was part of the Paringa Commonage, where livestock were mustered, and held there for processing using the river as the natural 'fence' to protect them from escape. It was never a place where feral goats roamed. To rename the island in Ruby's name is misguided and, if historically inaccurate, is something that given her humble nature, I don't think she would want. There are better, more accurate and more informative ways to record her local connections.

Brewers call for action on beer tax

WITH the beer tax set to increase yet again on Monday 3 February the Brewers Association of Australia has made a submission to the Treasurer's Budget consultation process calling for urgent action to address the high rates of tax.

On behalf of brewers and beer drinkers across Australia we are asking for urgent action to address the high rates of beer tax.

We already have one of the highest beer tax rates in the world – there is no need for it to keep going up twice a year.

Australians are doing the right thing and drinking responsibly. All these tax hikes are doing is making it increasingly unaffordable for Australians to head out to their local for a beer.

Last year the newly elected Labour Government in the United Kingdom used its first budget to continue the reductions in beer tax that were started under the previous Conservative government.

We believe the Treasurer should follow the example of his British counterpart and give much needed relief to beer drinkers and our hospitality sector.

More support needed for renters

NATIONAL housing campaign Everybody's Home is calling for greater financial support for renters on the lowest incomes, as new figures reveal that more than two-in-five rent assistance recipients remain in rental stress, despite rises to the payment.

The latest Productivity Commission's Report on Government Services shows nearly 42 per cent of low-income households that received Commonwealth Rent Assistance (CRA) were still paying more than 30 per cent of their income on rent in 2023-24.

The figures highlight the urgent need to reform CRA, and increase the rate of Centrelink payments, to better support renters who're doing it tough.

"The fact that more than two-in-five people who receive rent assistance are still in rental stress highlights the extreme cost of rents and the low rate of JobSeeker," Ms Azize said.

"For those who can get it, Commonwealth Rent Assistance can take the edge off rents. But the payment is unfairly designed – the people who need the most help get the least benefit, and many people aren't eligible for any help at all.

"The Federal Government must raise the rate of Centrelink payments like JobSeeker, and fix the problems with Commonwealth Rent Assistance. This would give a badly needed reprieve to the renters doing it the toughest.

"The housing crisis is still smashing so many Australians. It's time for the Federal Government to deliver meaningful solutions."

Grim findings on homelessness

THE latest Productivity Commission Report on Government Services has revealed a 25 per cent surge in persistent homelessness over the past five years, highlighting an urgent need for increased investment in long-term support services.

The data shows that 37,779 people experienced persistent homelessness in 2023-24, up from 30,306 in 2019-20. Persistent homelessness, defined as being homeless for more than seven months over a 24-month period, now affects more than one-in-five (22.5 per cent) of all homelessness service clients.

These are grim findings. More Australians than ever are trapped in long-term homelessness, and even those who find housing are struggling to maintain it without adequate support.

The report shows that 10.3 per cent of clients who secured housing through homelessness services in 2023-24 later returned to homelessness – representing 14,740 individuals who lost their housing despite initial success.

Each day, an average of 208 people seek accommodation and are turned away empty-handed. Over the year, that amounts to 53,292 people – one-in-three of those needing accommodation – who received no housing assistance at all.

However, the data also reveals some positive outcomes. Services successfully prevented homelessness in 80.9 per cent of cases where clients sought help while at risk of becoming homeless.

We know what works, we just have to resource it properly. The high success rate in preventing homelessness shows that early intervention is effective.

With sustained investment in support services, we can prevent people cycling back into homelessness and lay down the foundations of healthy, functional lives.

Australia Day across the region

I was honoured to attend many Australia Day Award ceremonies over the long weekend to congratulate this year’s recipients. The Awards are a reminder of the Riverland and Mallee’s generous and supportive community spirit, and I urge all Australians to fly our flag with pride as we celebrate living in the best region, in the best country in the world.

Riverland and Mallee stars

Each year, I take great pleasure in attending the Rotary Club’s Riverland and Mallee Vocational Awards where our regions most outstanding apprentices, trainees and vocational students are recognised. Offering young people in our region apprentice and traineeships is important to provide opportunities for our young people to gain skills and employment across a range of industries while keeping our skilled workforce in the region. I am looking forward to attending the Award Ceremony on February 14th and wish the best of luck to all the finalists.

Renmark Wharf reaches 83 per cent external funding...

Ratepayer relief

RENMARK Paringa Council has secured an additional $2m of funding towards its Renmark Riverfront Wharf upgrade, further alleviating the financial burden towards ratepayers.

The latest allocation of funding comes from the Local Government Disaster Recovery Assistance Arrangements, and takes the total external funding contribution of the project to $8.813m.

The major project, which was completed in November 2024, saw the total transformation of the Renmark riverfront to ensure the wharf withstands future flooding events and delivers an accessible and user-friendly asset for the entire community.

“This latest funding boost is a massive win for our community,”, Renmark Paringa chief executive officer Tony Siviour said.

“For this major project to now be 83 per cent externally funded, it lifts a significant financial burden to our ratepayers and allows us to focus on other important projects and services.

“With the new wharf making our town an even-more desirable destination, we are looking to take an increasingly active role in unlocking housing opportunities.”

Meanwhile, council has also recently sold a parcel of land for the development of independent living units, and has this week launched another development opportunity.

This follows the assisted living housing – supported by Renmark Paringa Council – being recently completed on Railway Terrace, Renmark.

“We will continue to explore opportunities to assist in addressing the growing housing demand,” Mr Siviour said.

“We acknowledge the importance of encouraging a range of different housing options, such as independent living, NDIS housing, student accommodation and rentals for young professionals.”

McGilton Road works to begin

RIVERLAND drivers travelling along McGilton Road in Berri can expect detours and some minor inconvenience in coming weeks to allow for the road to be remediated.

McGilton Road required reconstruction works to allow for stormwater infrastructure upgrades.

Berri Barmera Council CEO Tim Pfeiffer said the works, which will see the closure of a section of McGilton Road, are expected to take about a month.

“We thank McGilton Road travellers for their patience while we undertake these works,” he said.

“Council is looking forward to having this road fixed and while inconvenient, these works must be done to remediate the road properly.”

The works will begin Monday 10 February, with the closure of McGilton Road from Trenaman Crescent through to Clarke Road.

Traffic management will be in place daily to help navigate the area, and there will be temporary changes to both vehicle and pedestrian access during the works.

Traffic for Calvary St Catherine’s aged care will be detoured, directing vehicles to park in the Berri Tennis Club carpark along Trenaman Crescent. Signage will then be in place for pedestrians to access the facility.

Disability, staff and delivery access to St Catherine’s aged care will take place through the rear of the site through the Riverland Central Shopping Centre carpark.

Meanwhile, patients of the Berri Medical Clinic can access the facility via Clarke Road. A temporary carpark has been established on the corner of Clarke Road and McGilton Road.

The road will be closed to the public with the exception of council vehicles, emergency services vehicles and contractor vehicles. McGilton Road will reopen to the public at 4pm each day.

Berri Riverside Holiday Park patrons are encouraged to take alternative routes to access the park on Riverview Drive.

For access maps for both Calvary St Catherine’s aged care and Berri Medical Clinic, please visit council’s website (berribarmera.sa.gov.au).

Council’s new development opportunity

RENMARK Paringa Council has opened the Expression of Interest process for a parcel of land located on Eighteenth Street, in Renmark, planned to increase the town’s housing availability.

Renmark Paringa chief executive officer Tony Siviour said the development “would play a key role in providing diverse and affordable housing options to meet the region’s growing needs”.

“Our vision is to create a development that supports the liveability and vibrancy of Renmark,” Mr Siviour said.

“By increasing the availability of affordable housing, we are not only addressing immediate needs but also fostering long-term social and economic benefits for our town.

“This is about building a future where people from all walks of life can call Renmark home.”

Grass fire at Cadell

MORE than 20 firefighters helped extinguish a fire at a Riverland West campground last week.

Country Fire Services (CFS) attended a grass fire at Hogwash Bend Conservation Park near Cadell, on Wednesday 29 January.

Just after 9am, approximately 26 CFS firefighters, supported by heavy machinery, responded to a scrub fire on hard-to-access terrain within Hogwash Conservation Park.

The fire, located 300m from the campgrounds, had wind pushing in the opposite direction from campers, limiting immediate risk.

CFS crews remained on scene into early morning hours and created a control line around the fire, which has now been extinguished.

National Parks and Wildlife Services will be in the area during the coming days to ensure the scene remains safe, while the cause of the fire is yet to be determined.

SAPOL also attended the scene to support campers in the area.

Emergency services may be working around roads in the area and motorists are being advised to take precautions and be aware of the local conditions.

Roads are currently open around the affected area, however there could be changes on short notice.

To monitor road closures, visit the Traffic SA website (www.traffic.sa.gov.au).

Council to waiver cemetery fees for babies and children

A RIVERLAND ouncil will waive the grave-digging fees for babies and children in a commitment to supporting families during a difficult time.

At last week’s monthly meeting, council agreed to waive the fees at its cemeteries for children up to the age of 10.

Berri Barmera Council Mayor Ella Winnall said the fee waiver was a small way for council to show compassion and support to grieving families.

“While grief is never easy at any stage of life, the death of a child is such an impossible thing to grapple with,” she said.

“While nothing could alleviate the grief of losing a child, we hope this fee waiver will in some small way support families in such a difficult time.

“Waiving the fee is a small impact to council’s budget, so it is something we felt the community would be comfortable supporting those families with.”

Previously, grave digging fees were $282.50 and $342.50 for stillborn and child graves respectively, which is comparable to other local councils.

Cr Collis Marrett requested the fee waiver at the council meeting, which was supported by the chamber.

“I think someone who has gone through that time needs some sympathy from the council,” Cr Marrett said.

Mayor Winnall recognised Cr Marrett for his advocacy and compassion.

Back to school means time to update your children’s asthma action plan

AS Riverland children return to school, Asthma Australia is encouraging parents to update their child’s Asthma Action Plan.

An Asthma Action Plan is a personalised guide created by a doctor to manage a child’s asthma, including:

- ❑ How to look after your child’s asthma daily: Instructions for everyday asthma management.
- ❑ What to do if asthma starts to flare up: Steps to take if symptoms worsen.
- ❑ What to do if asthma becomes severe: Emergency actions if the flare-up becomes serious.
- ❑ What to do in an asthma emergency: Instructions for life-threatening asthma attacks.

Regardless of how mild a child’s asthma may seem, Asthma Australia recommends everyone with asthma should have one.

“Sending your child back to school without an updated written Asthma Action Plan is just like sending them to play in the sun without a hat on,” CEO of Asthma Australia Kate Miranda said.

“They are exposed.

“It’s one of those small, but important steps to keep them protected — whether it’s from the sun’s rays or unexpected asthma flare-ups.

“The asthma burden on kids is significant.

ASTHMA AUSTRALIA

Forty-two per cent of Australians aged 0 to 14 with asthma had to take time off school due to their asthma.

“About 26,500 children under 15 visited an ED for asthma in 2021/22. Making sure that our kids start the school year on the front foot is clearly important.

“So, as you tick off the back-to-school checklist — hats, uniforms, lunchboxes — add an asthma refresh to the mix and book an appointment with your child’s doctor to update their Asthma Action Plan today.

“The goal of the Asthma Action Plan is to prevent and control asthma symptoms. Even if you know what to do when your child’s asthma flares up, it’s invaluable to have clear, written instructions from your doctor, especially in an emergency situation.”

For more information, or an action plan, visit the website (www.asthma.org.au).

Council appoints new deputy mayor

COUNCILLOR Trevor Scott has been appointed the new deputy mayor of Berri Barmera Council.

The appointment was made at last week’s monthly council meeting after former Deputy Mayor Andrew Kassebaum resigned from the role.

Cr Kassebaum was elected deputy mayor in November 2024, but decided to stand down from the position due to unforeseen personal reasons.

“Unfortunately, personal circumstances mean I can no longer commit sufficient time to the role of deputy mayor at present,” Cr Kassebaum said.

“This has been a hard decision, but I have had some matters arise that I need to prioritise over coming months.

“I wish to thank Berri Barmera Council for its support in recent times and have confidence in the council going forward.”

Berri Barmera Mayor Ella Winnall thanked Cr Kassebaum for his service and recognised Cr Scott in taking on the role.

“We have a wealth of experience across the chamber and I appreciate Cr Kassebaum stepping up late last year, and recognise Cr Scott returning to the role in 2025,” Mayor Winnall said.

The “old butter factory”, near Monash, is for sale through Ray White Riverland. The building’s latest incarnation has been an executive home and boutique bed and breakfast. PHOTO: Ray White Riverland

New chapter for old butter factory

A CONVERTED butter factory – that never produced any butter – situated between Monash and Barmera has hit the market, adding another chapter to its storied history. Built in the early 20th century and known locally as ‘the old butter factory’, the property – on 7 Macdonald Road, Monash – has served numerous purposes over the years, most recently a restored residential home. According to the Berri Barmera Council, the building, located about 2km from Barmera on the Sturt Highway to Monash, was established by the Irrigation

Commission over 100 years ago. It served various purposes over the years, including use by local farmers, soldiers, sporting clubs, limestone production, and as a shearing shed. In 1920, lime kilns were installed, and at its peak about 600 men were employed, many living on-site. During the early 1920s, the Soldier Settler’s Co-operative Scheme operated its office and sports teams’ headquarters from the factory. By 1939, the building had become a shearing shed, and the butter factory project was ultimately abandoned, never processing milk or producing butter. Kadina-born Riverland country music legend Dean ‘Rocky’ Page later purchased the property with his wife Viv, converting it into a residential home. Ian and Jenny Schober acquired the property in March 1998 and set about transforming it into an executive home and boutique bed-and-breakfast. “Before renovations could commence, all the old outbuildings attached to the stone section had to be removed – so that’s where the renovating began,” Mr Schober said. “It was practically stripped bare, leaving only the stone walls, the roof rafters, and all its charm. “We wanted to restore the character of the beautiful old stone building to its former glory.” Ray White Riverland’s lead agent Greg Cram said he was expecting a “wide range of buyers” to take interest in the historic home.

Warning surrounds dangerous fishing gear use

RIVERLAND recreational fishing enthusiasts are being urged to adopt bird-safe fishing practices as wildlife rescuers continue to find birds injured and killed by fishing equipment. “Fishing lines and hooks inflict terrible injuries on birds and other wildlife as they struggle to free themselves,” RSPCA SA rescue team leader Nalika van Loenen said. “Many birds do not survive, and those that do have often suffered for hours or days before being rescued. “And since some people like to fish in remote locations, it’s highly likely that some birds and other wildlife caught in fishing

- gear are not being found.” Bird-safe fishing practices are:
- ☐ Avoid feeding wild birds.
 - ☐ Avoid casting a line when birds are close.
 - ☐ Always watch active lines.
 - ☐ Protect your landed catch from birds.
 - ☐ Remove all rubbish or place it in a covered bin.
 - ☐ Cut up or burn unwanted line to prevent bird entanglements at waste management facilities
 - ☐ If a bird is hooked, avoid cutting the line, and instead slowly reel it in or encourage the bird to fly towards you.
 - ☐ Protect your eyes with glasses or sunglasses, wear gloves and use a net if you have one, place a towel or clothing over the bird’s head and wings and immediately call a rescue organisation (listed in link below).

- ☐ If a hooked bird breaks the line, watch its location to assist rescuers when they arrive. A photo of the bird and drop pin on a map will help rescuers to locate and identify it.

“You won’t get into trouble for accidentally catching a bird, and we urge anyone in this situation to do all they can to help the bird and the rescuers who turn up, often in a volunteer capacity,” Ms van Loenen said.

Fishing lines and hooks inflict terrible injuries on birds and other wildlife...

“If a hooked bird breaks the fishing line and you’re able to direct rescuers to where the bird has landed, it greatly increases the chance of a timely and successful rescue.” For more information on Wildlife Rescue Organisations, visit the website (www.rspcasa.org.au/services/rescue/).

SA regions overlooked for funding, says Pasin

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

THE Riverland’s Federal MP says “important” regional infrastructure projects have been overlooked for a major national funding program.

Barker MP Tony Pasin last week criticised a lack of funding toward the Barker electorate under the latest round of the Federal Government’s Growing Regions program.

Mr Pasin said ensuring ongoing growth for regional South Australian areas needed to be a higher priority.

“In 2022 Anthony Albanese promised no one would be left behind under an Albanese Labor Government, unfortunately, it seems he wasn’t talking about regional South Australians,” Mr Pasin said.

“It’s blatantly obvious that Labor is more interested in playing politics and prioritising states and seats the Prime Minister is desperate to hold or win in the upcoming election.

“Unfortunately for South Australian regions it means projects that are desperate for funding to increase economic activity in our regional communities have missed out.

“Albanese and his Infrastructure, Transport and Regional Development Minister are splashing cash while South Australia’s regional communities get the crumbs.”

Two Barker-based projects – the Kingston SE Childcare project and upgrades for the Penola Football Club – received funding through the Growing Regions program’s latest round.

“While the two projects to receive funding in Barker is fantastic news, there are so many other very important projects that have been left behind because Albanese simply doesn’t care about South Australia.”

However, Federal Minister for Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development and Local Government, Catherine King, said the Barker electorate had received more than $20m so far from the Growing Regions program.

“The Albanese Government is investing more than $10bn in South Australian infrastructure and works closely with the Malinauskas Government on shared priorities,” Ms King said.

“We have also overhauled and improved grants programs replacing the legacy of rorts and politicised grants programs by the Liberals and Nationals with transparent, competitive and merit-based programs.

“Federal funding programs are highly competitive and that’s exactly what we’ve seen for the merit-based Growing Regions Program. We invested $22.6m in the electorate of Barker from the first two rounds of the Growing Regions Program.

“The Liberals are hypocritical in calling on the Government to cut spending nationally, while demanding we significantly increase spending in their electorates. By contrast, the Albanese Government is delivering for the people of South Australia.”

Covid cluster at St Catherine’s

MADISON EASTMOND

AFTER a cluster of up-to seven recent cases, Berri Calvary St Catherine’s has advised as of Monday morning all residents and staff have tested negative to Covid-19.

St Catherine’s advised on 26 January that three residents and up to four staff had recently tested positive for Covid-19, with the aged care home limiting group and non-essential activities, visitors, and requiring personal protective equipment, hygiene, and screening for the past week.

To continue to stay safe from Covid, SA Health recommends the Riverland community to undertake precautions, including:

- ❑ Get vaccinated, as being vaccinated, you are less likely to go to hospital or get seriously ill from Covid-19.
- ❑ Plan with your GP or healthcare professional about what you should do if you get symptoms if you are at higher risk of severe illness or eligible for oral antiviral treatment.

If you, or someone close to you, tests positive to Covid, SA Health recommends Riverlanders:

- ❑ Stay home until your acute symptoms have cleared (usually 5 to 7 days).
- ❑ Wear a mask when indoors or on public transport if you need to leave the house before your acute symptoms have cleared.

- ❑ Avoid large gatherings and crowded indoor places until your acute symptoms have cleared.
- ❑ Avoid visiting people at high risk of severe illness, or anyone in a hospital, or aged or disability care facility for at least 7 days. However, if visiting is required, please speak with the facility healthcare team how this can occur as safely as possible.
- ❑ Speak with your employer about when to return to work.

Waikerie local heroes to be honoured

NEW funding will support the delivery of a podcast documenting the experiences of South Australian veterans and war widows alongside a photographic exhibition of veteran life and service.

The Returned and Services League Waikerie sub branch is set to receive $40,400 to commemorate the service of local veterans and their families, thanks to the Federal Government’s 2024-25 Saluting Their Service Commemorative Grants Program.

The Waikerie RSL Sub Branch is one of 55 organisations from around the country sharing in more than $770,000 in funding for commemorative projects that help educate local communities on the service and sacrifices made by our serving personnel and their families.

Minister for Veterans’ Affairs Matt Keogh said “I’m always so pleased to see organisations going above and beyond to pay tribute to those who have served from their community”.

“All over the nation, throughout our history, local communities have played a unique role in war and service, and this program brings the realities of that defence service to the fore,” Mr Keogh said.

The Saluting their Service program plays a key role in ensuring that the ongoing contribution made by Australian service people and their loved ones is recognised and remembered.

The current grant round is open until 5 February 2025 and for more information visit the Saluting their Service Grants Program website (www.dva.gov.au/about/overview/consultations-and-grants/grants-and-bursaries/saluting-their-service-commemorative-grants-program).

FRUIT FLY OUTBREAK MURTHO F

A Queensland fruit fly larva (maggot) has been found in Murtho, causing a new outbreak to be declared called Murtho F.

Some fruit and vegetables cannot move from properties in the outbreak area. Keep fruit on your property – do not share, sell or give it away.

We have begun eradication activities in the area. PIRSA field staff with ID will be visiting properties to apply organic fruit fly bait and check fruit for signs of fruit fly. Please provide us access to your garden so we can do our work quickly and efficiently.

If you need to discuss special arrangements for moving commercial produce from outbreak areas, please call the industry hotline on 1800 255 556.

What you need to do:

- Pick your ripe fruit and vegetables.

Exciting development opportunity awaits

RENMARK Paringa Council has announced a new development opportunity that aims to enhance the region's housing offering.

An Expression of Interest (EOI) has been released for a prime parcel of land located on Eighteenth Street, Renmark, available through Tenders SA.

The total size of the parcel of land is 5667m2.

This development will play a key role in providing diverse and affordable housing options to meet the region's growing needs.

Council is offering two strategically positioned parcels of land in the heart of Renmark, providing a unique opportunity for developers to contribute to the town's long-term growth.

The aim is to deliver a mixed housing development that not only addresses the current demand for affordable homes, but also supports the region's future growth with diverse and sustainable housing options.

"We recognise the critical need for diverse and affordable housing in our region," Renmark Paringa Council chief executive officer Tony Siviour said.

"This development opportunity is an exciting step forward in addressing the housing demands of essential workers, students, and other key groups who are vital to our community."

Renmark Paringa Council is committed to helping facilitate the development of homes that meet the needs of various demographics.

This includes not only essential workers and students, but also broader residential housing that reflects the diverse needs of the region.

"Our vision is to create a development that supports the liveability and vibrancy of Renmark," Mr Siviour said.

"By increasing the availability of affordable housing, we are not only addressing immediate needs but also fostering long-term social and economic benefits for our town."

"This is about building a future where people from all walks of life can call Renmark home."

For more information about the development opportunity visit here (www.tenders.sa.gov.au/tender/view?id=284384) Or scan the QR code below.

Barmera charity in need of volunteers

MADISON EASTMOND

MUNCHIES Community Café is searching for volunteers to support its charitable work of providing affordable meals to the Riverland community.

Situated at the end of Barmera's main street, for the past two years Munchies Community Café has been a not-for-profit organisation, with a neighbouring op-shop, that has provided hot meals to the Riverland and those in need.

"We are a charity before anything else," Muchies Community Café manager and volunteer Darlene Strother said.

"All the money that comes into the shop goes right back to the community.

"Whether that's buying the food for our meals, or putting together free food hampers for those who are struggling."

As a not-for-profit, Munchies Community Café survives from the efforts of local volunteers.

However, Ms Strother said she is currently struggling to find helping hands to continue her charitable work.

"The price of meals is low because people are donating their time to volunteer at the café," she said.

"It's a really important service to offer with the current cost of living continuing to rise and rise.

"I love knowing people can come to buy a hot meal, or family can have a special take out.

"I would be wonderful if people could donate just a couple hours or days of their week so we can keep Munchies going — we will take any help we can."

Providing all the training needed, Ms Strother said volunteering at Munchies Community Café is also an opportunity for many in the community to gain work experience in hospitality.

"We have had many people come to work at the café, and then end up moving to paid employment," she said.

"It's an opportunity not only to help others, but also help yourself."

For more information, or to register interest as a volunteer, contact Munchies Café on Facebook, or visit the café at 25 Barwell Avenue, Barmera.

Nippy's gift ready to roar for number 24

LACHLAN DAND

IT is one of the most-loved events on the Riverland sporting calendar, and in less than three weeks, the Nippy's Gift will return to Loxton for its 24th year.

The Gift – taking place on 22 February – is a bucket list event for any professional runner, and its rich history has seen athletes come to the region from all over the state, with the overall goal of competing for a sash at the carnival.

Nippy's have been the major sponsor of the event since its inception, and CMV Farms continues its support, which has enabled the equalling of prizemoney for the Women's Gift since 2022.

Having recently competed both the Bay Sheffield and the Camden Classic Carnival, and with the Western Athletics Club Gift still to be run prior to the Loxton event, runners are in their best form.

South Australian Athletic League executive officer Jenny Poole said there is a high-level of excitement from the competitors, and with exciting races set to be run, a big crowd is expected at Loxton Oval for the free event.

"All of our runners are handicapped based on the times that they can run, meaning everyone has a chance to be competitive, which makes for really tight and exciting finishes," Ms Poole said.

"We had a really good Bay Sheffield this year, so I would hope that would be a good indication that the Loxton Gift will be the same, because it was fantastic.

"Loxton's one of the best atmospheres that we come across, and the community involvement is incredible.

"We always work with Athletics SA to ensure we're separate from the State Championships, and the Adelaide Invitational, and that gives our athletes the opportunity to compete in as many events as they can.

“We’d love to see as many people there to enjoy it as possible.”

Distances range from 70m to 1000m, and with handicapped races also set to be included, spectators can expect tight and exhilarating finishes across the evening.

“Last year we had 17 races throughout, and we found that worked really well, so that’s what we’ve gone with again,” Ms Poole said.

“We’ll have to start at 4pm again this year as we did last year, but a lot of it is just heats to start with, and none of the finals would start before 5pm.

“It should be through until about 10pm which is what we did last year, so we’d love to be able to do that again.

“One of the highlights of the evening is the relay between the local sporting clubs and their communities.

“That race is always organised by Nippy’s and the local committee, but I’m sure they will be back because they’re so popular, and it’s so good to have them involved and we love it.”

The Denis Hann Memorial Trophy was awarded to the winner of the men’s Nippy’s Gift for the first time in 2024, and will be awarded once again, while Terry McAuliffe is set to call the race.

Riverland youth to become storytellers

MADISON EASTMOND

WHETHER a novelist, playwright, or poet, Riverland teen writers are encouraged to join the Riverland Youth Theatre (RYT) in their newest workshop, Storytellers.

Offering two-hour fortnightly writing workshops, beginning on 13 February, from 4pm to 6pm, RYT have been supported by Country Arts SA to provide a space for those between the ages of 13 to 18 to develop their own story, while asking questions and sharing their craft with other writers.

“This is a relaxed workshop that will be open to up to 10 participants and is planned to run for a year,” Storytellers facilitator Kirste Vandergiessen said.

“Not only will participants be able to use the (workshops) to spend time writing on their own personal pieces, there will also be a local artist that will be able to speak about their own forms of writing and careers.

“So far, we have organised for a playwright, game writer, and journalist — it’s to provide knowledge on what it means to be a writer, and how to be a writer, outside of the typical path of novelist.

Ms Vandergiessen said that she was excited for RYT to continue to provide artistic opportunities to Riverland youth.

“As a writer myself, I know it can be difficult to balance writing for leisure with a full schedule,” she said.

“These workshops are time dedicated to writing, to spend time thinking about writing, and asking questions — which will hopefully be great practice and create good habits for (writing) futures.

“There has been lots of interest for writing in the Riverland, so it’s just fantastic to be able to offer programs like Storytellers.

“It feels like we’re really building a writing community.”

For more information, or to book a place in Storytellers, visit the website (www.try-booking.com/events/landing/1339591).

Facilitator Kirste Vandergiessen said Storytellers was a program open to any young writer excited to dedicate time to developing and learning more about their craft. PHOTO: Madison Eastmond

Renmark Lions support for hay runners

DURING the afternoon of Saturday 25 January, more than 50 semi-trailers stopped in Renmark for a lunch break on their way to delivering donated bales of hay to Peterborough for drought-stricken farmers in the mid north of SA.

Members of the Renmark Lions Club met the convoy with its pilot, Ray Acres from the Heyfield Lions Club, by the Renmark Skate Park and directed the trucks to park along Industry Road, adjacent to the Sturt Highway, all the way up to Twentythird Street Distillery, where the drivers were able to visit McDonalds, Hungry Jacks and KFC for their lunch.

Renmark Lions Club made a donation of $1000 to Aussie Hay Runners and provided each truck driver with a bag of hot donuts on the day, before they continued on their journey at approximately 2pm.

AHR founder Linda Widdup said “we couldn’t be prouder working alongside the SA Government, and we wish to acknowledge and thank everyone who has been involved and making this run happen – and believe me, there has been a lot involved”.

“As always, our reputation is of the utmost importance to us and every single bale is top-quality oaten or wheaten hay with the highest nutritional value possible,” Ms Widdup said.

Cadell Wetland watering

THE Cadell Wetland has received its first environmental watering since the 2022-23 flood, helping to support the Riverland environmental sie’s recovery and strengthen its ecological health.

Early signs of recovery are already evident, with increased bird activity and the welcome sound of frogs calling.

Murraylands and Riverland Landscape Board Wetland (MRLB) ecologist Annie Kriesl said she was “grateful for the local community’s support”.

“Local community members, including those from the Cadell Tourism Association, have been crucial partners and advocates for this project,” Ms Kriesl said.

“These volunteers, who have been involved in monitoring this area for many years, will provide on-ground support by managing water valves, monitoring environmental conditions, and recording observations.

“Their ongoing involvement will play an important role in the long-term monitoring of the site’s recovery, ensuring a collaborative approach to wetland management.”

The watering, made possible with the use of Commonwealth environmental water, is expected to benefit native birds, frogs, and vegetation by revitalising the wetland’s natural cycles, and providing vital habitat.

Cadell has two lagoons that will receive environmental water. The first lagoon opposite the oval will slowly fill and, once full, water will be redirected to the secondary lagoon.

“This is the first time the MRLB have watered Cadell, so we’ll be watching the water levels closely and topping up the wetland, when necessary,” Ms Kriesl said.

The habitat created as the wetland fills will be important to many creatures, including frogs, and monitoring how the biodiversity improves will be essential.

“If you’re visiting Cadell and hear frogs calling, you can join the effort by participating in a FrogSpotter survey,” Ms Kriesl said.

“Citizen science initiatives like this help us understand the health of our wetlands and the species they support.”

Connections flourish at Berri Regional Secondary

CELEBRATING Aboriginal culture from the past, present, and future, a cultural garden is flourishing a Berri Regional Secondary College.

Providing annual support for grassroots community events and projects run by not-for-profit organisations that contribute to reconciliation in South Australia, SA Water’s Reconciliation Partnerships Program Pirkur-Itya, has created a garden at Berri Regional that celebrates the rich traditions of the First Peoples of the River Murray and Mallee.

“Developed in close consultation with the local community, the space serves as an inclusive hub for cultural engagement, sustainable practices and educational opportunities,” Aboriginal Education and South Australian Aboriginal Secondary Training Academy leader David Binney said.

“Featuring native plants traditionally used for food, fibre and medicine, the garden allows students to explore cultural uses of flora, such as creating Lilly Pilly jams and beauty products.

“The garden provides a space for shared learning and understanding, fostering connections that will have lasting benefits for students and the wider community.

“Aboriginal artwork and a representation of the River Murray form part of the garden’s design, creating an environment where students can learn about and celebrate the cultural significance of the land and waterways.

“The site also serves as a venue for NAIDOC Week and other reconciliation events, uniting the school community in shared celebrations.”

SA Water manager of brand and community connection Kellie McDonald said this partnership is one of the ways the utility is working with Aboriginal communities across South Australia to recognise and build awareness of the important role traditional owners play in caring for land and water.

“We are committed to working collaboratively with groups like Berri Regional Secondary College to achieve our shared vision of a sustainable future,” Ms McDonald said.

“Underpinning these collaborations is our ongoing commitment to reconciliation and building strong, respectful relationships with Aboriginal communities and promoting cultural awareness and understanding.”

Survey submissions open to improve rural health care

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

RIVERLAND doctors have been encouraged to provide input surrounding rural healthcare challenges for a major national survey.

The Australian Medical Association (AMA) last week opened submissions for the 2025 Rural Health Issues Survey.

AMA president Danielle McMullen said participation. In the survey ensured “voices are heard on crucial issues affecting access to rural healthcare”.

“Working as a rural doctor can be an incredibly rewarding experience, but it comes with its own unique challenges,” Dr McMullen said.

“Workforce shortages, infrastructure issues, the challenge of distance, and higher incidences of major illnesses among the population are all issues our rural doctors deal with every day.

“The AMA has been calling for dedicated strategies and investments to support our rural workforce for years.

“We want rural doctors to share their experiences with us and tell us what the priorities should be ahead of the federal election. We will use the results of the survey to ensure rural health is on the agenda of all politicians.”

The AMA has run the Rural Health Issues Survey every three years since 2016, providing insights into the issues that impact both patients and doctors in rural Australia, and how to address them.

However, AMA Council of Rural Doctors chair Ian Kamerman said numerous respondents also expressed the deep fulfilment they experienced from serving rural communities.

“We know how rewarding a career in rural health is, but investment and reform is needed to address a range of issues, including workforce and training opportunities, to ensure it remains an attractive pathway for young doctors,” Dr Kamerman said.

The 2025 Rural Health Issues Survey is open to all doctors practising in regional, rural or remote Australia, as well as doctors who have previously worked in those areas.

The survey will close on 19 February, and can be completed by visiting the website (www.surveymonkey.com/r/S73B97H).

Skin cancer warning for Riverlanders

HEALTH authorities are sending a reminder to Riverlanders to stay protected from the sun, to regularly check their skin, and see a GP if they notice any changes.

Noticeable changes in skin could be a sign of skin cancer, with two-in-three Australians diagnosed with some form of skin cancer before the age of 70.

To help GPs detect skin cancers early, the State Government and Cancer Council SA have funded 330 dermatoscopes to practices across the state.

More than 550 GPs across the state have completed the Australasian College of Dermatologists' training program, which educates GPs in using a dermatoscope to examine and diagnose skin lesions such as melanoma.

To protect themselves, Riverlanders are encouraged to use a combination of sun protection measures:

- ❑ Slip on some sun-protective clothing that covers as much skin as possible.
- ❑ Slop on SPF50+, broad-spectrum, water-resistant sunscreen. Put it on 20 minutes before you go outdoors and every two hours afterwards.
- ❑ Slap on a hat – broad brim to protect your face, head, neck and ears.
- ❑ Seek shade.
- ❑ Slide on some sunglasses.

“Remember to Slip, Slop, Slap, Seek and Slide to protect yourself from skin cancer,” Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said.

“If you do notice changes in your skin, don't muck around – early detection is the key. Go and see a GP and get checked.

“Providing access to dermatoscopes to GPs across South Australia means more people can access potentially lifesaving skin checks close to home.

“Early detection will have the greatest impact on reducing the number of South Australians lost to skin cancer.”

Shape new laws to restore SA biodiversity

RIVERLANDERS will now be able to shape South Australia's first ever Biodiversity Act, which aims to protect the state's native animals and plants, help to build resilience to the effects of climate change, and reduce red tape for development.

The draft act, which is now out for public consultation, will improve recognition for threatened species and provide opportunities for investment in restoring nature.

Drafted over two years in consultation with environmental scientists, economists, primary producers, miners and development planners, the draft Biodiversity Act includes:

- ❑ A nationally consistent process to assess and recognise threatened native species and ecological communities.
- ❑ A general obligation requiring individuals, businesses and government agencies to take reasonable steps to prevent or minimise harm to biodiversity
- ❑ The development of a new State Biodiversity Plan identifying priorities and measurable targets for biodiversity conservation, restoration and recovery, and to inform land use planning.

“We not only have to stop harming nature, but we also have to restore nature to create a stronger collective future for all South Australians,” Minister for Climate, Environment, and Water Susan Close said.

“The new Biodiversity Act will establish the framework to deliver environmental wins by safeguarding threatened animals and plants, restoring valuable habitat and ecosystems, while supporting billions of dollars in economic activity.

“The act aims to better balance environmental protection and restoration with economic growth. I encourage people to have their say on this state-first legislation so that South Australia can continue to protect our state's precious biodiversity and give something to our children of which we all can be proud.”

Penalties for people that harm or traffic native animals or illegally clear native habitat will also be increased to a maximum $500,000 for businesses, a significant increase on existing fines that range from $2500 to $100,000.

The new Act would include a maximum $250,000 fine or five years' jail for individuals convicted of illegally killing, catching, restraining, injuring, keeping or interfering with a protected animal.

Feedback opportunity closes by 19 February.

To provide feedback on the draft Bill, visit YourSAy before the website (yoursay.sa.gov.au/draft-biodiversity-bill).

Summer Edition NOW AVAILABLE

The following eulogy has been provided for well-known Renmark man MAX THOMPSON...

Always willing to lend a hand

MAXWELL George Thompson, known to many as ‘Max’ (‘Hard Hat’).
Born on 26 September 1941, at the Renmark Paringa Hospital. Son to Lenard Reginal, and Ruby Amy Amelia Thompson, Max was the only son, with three younger sisters, Lorna, Gayleen, and Kathleen.
Max lived and worked all his life on the property that his parents Len and Ruby started, and he also worked with his three brothers-in-law.
He attended Renmark Primary School and during the school holidays Max worked at the Moray Park Cannery as a weigh bridge clerk, fruit classer and general hand. With the money he earned he bought himself a new push bike, which he used to ride to high school.
However, he only spent eight months at Renmark High School, due to the school being closed because of the 1956 flood.
He never returned to school, and this turned out to be the start of his full-time working life. He was then put to work driving a tractor to assist loading clay onto trucks, to build the flood banks on the Sturt Highway, through Paringa.
During Max’s primary school years he joined the boys brigade, rising to rank of captain, but he also had to give this up due to the 1956 flood.
During the flood Max assisted in looking for the body of a local lad who drowned while riding along the railway track when he fell from the bridge, he was not found until many years later. He then started to work full time on his parents’ fruit and vegetable property, which later he managed right up until it was sold in 1995, when Max retired.
While he was involved with the family business he also managed to fit in night school to learn how to weld, to help with the repairs, maintenance and also to make lots of different inventions for work on, and around, the block. If you know Max, they weren’t always pretty, but they got the job done.

In 1957 Max started playing football with the Paringa Football Club in its opening year. This continued until 1996, when he became their volunteer trainer for the next four years.
Max also learnt to fly a glider and became a solo pilot, but had to give it up due to getting sick from the G forces on his body.
In 1959 Max and his sisters became shareholders in the family business and this was the year Max met his future wife, Shirley, during the great carrot season romance, which led to them dating for a short time. Max went on a holiday to Kangaroo Island and didn’t send Shirley any correspondence, so Shirley put an end to their relationship and moved away to Mildura, until the next carrot season came around and they rekindled their relationship.
They later married in 1963, and had two sons, Darren and Peter, and two daughters, Tanya and Leanne, with two sons-in-law, Roger and Colin. This has led to nine amazing granddaughters, and one great-grandson, who is hopefully behaving himself, unlike Peter at this age.
During their years together Max and Shirley enjoyed many a holiday overseas, leaving the children behind, but they also enjoyed taking the kids with them on their caravan travels all over Australia. Max loved a good slide night when they returned home from their travels.
In 1960 Max tried to join the CMF, but his father stopped him. This led Max to one of his greatest loves, volunteering. Max undertook a 16-week first aid course in Renmark, and at the end of the course he was asked to join the Renmark St John Ambulance Brigade, Berri Division, doing public duties on weekends, as it was the only division in the Riverland at that time that covered public and sporting events.

Max then devoted the next 27 years to this cause. Max quickly shot up the ranks with his dedication, and rose to the rank of superintendent, also achieving a lot of honours along the way, such as the St John Ambulance Brigade Long Service Medal, plus the first and second bar to this medal, a National Medal for Service, and he received a Queen’s Medal ‘Serving Brother of the Order of St John’. But this wasn’t enough for Max.
So, in 1961 he also joined the Emergency Fire Service, from the very first meeting, and then spent the next 15 years with them. He also joined the Civil Defence, as officer in charge of the first aid section, until its name changed to the State Emergency Service.
In 1969 Max took up pistol shooting as a personal sport, and for relaxation, and continued with this up until his death. Max is a life member of the club, and also dedicated a lot of hours serving as secretary, and treasurer, on multiple occasions, plus as firearms safety officer, firearms instructor, range officer and firearms dealer, along with working on the ranges throughout his time with the club.
Max had many experiences and achievements in his life, from being on the board of the Renmark Paringa Hospital, to being part of the Renmark Agricultural Bureau. Max became a member of the Renmark Canning fruit growers and was the secretary for several years, until the family business pulled all their peaches out.
He was appointed Justice of the Peace, and Representative of the Renmark District Ambulance Board, until he retired from St

John Ambulance Australia, and a Justice of the Quorum doing court duties, and he received life membership from the Riverland Speedway Club for first aid services given to minibikes, go karts and motocross. He was also awarded Renmark District Council Australia Day Citizen of the Year.
A few years before Max retired, his and Shirley’s granddaughter, Jasmine, was born with a cyst on her brain. They then spent a lot of time at the Royal Women’s and Children’s Hospital, in Adelaide, and after retiring they became Jasmine’s full-time carer, up until Shirley became too ill, then Max became Shirley’s full-time carer.
In the years of caring for Jasmine, Max became heavily involved in the Riverland Special School, and disability sector.
Max was always ready to help anyone who needed it, all they had to do was ask, as he always loved a good cause and a good debate, but you just needed to be ready to do it his way.
Peter would like to apologise for anything that has not been mentioned, as Max achieved way more than your average bloke.

TAFE SA fee-free courses hitting high demand in the Riverland

STUDENTS across the Riverland have been gaining in-demand skills and new qualifications through Fee-Free TAFE over the past two years.

New data revealing the locations of Fee-Free TAFE course enrolments show that students right across the state are benefitting from the life-changing initiative, with more than 500 enrolments over the past two years in each of the Yorke and Mid North, Whyalla and Eyre Peninsula, Murraylands and Riverland, and Adelaide Hills, Fleurieu and KI.

Courses offered through Fee-Free TAFE directly align with the need for skilled workers including health, technology, construction, major defence projects such as AUKUS, three-year-old preschool, and the Whyalla hydrogen power plant facility.

Popular areas of study include Information Technology, Individual Support (Aged Care), Early Childhood Education and Care, Human and Social Welfare, and Health Administration.

“The true test of Fee-Free TAFE is how many South Australians have enrolled who couldn’t afford to attend TAFE if it wasn’t free,” Minister for Education, Training, and Skills Blair Boyer said.

“The fact that the number one postcode in South Australia for Fee-Free TAFE is 5114, shows this initiative is doing exactly what we need it to do.

“We’re giving South Australians the skills they need to get the jobs which are there in our economy right now.

“This is about breaking down barriers to education and training – including financial barriers.”

TITLE:
Here One Moment

AUTHOR:
Liane Moriarty

BOOK REVIEW BY:
Kim Schiller

Bestselling Australian author Liane Moriarty captivates readers again with her latest novel ‘Here One Moment’. The story begins on a typical flight from Hobart to Sydney. The plane is filled with a mix of singles, couples and families, and it all seems very uneventful until a passenger decides to change the lives of the other people on the flight.

A lady, quite unremarkable in every way, interrupts routine proceedings on the flight to foretell the exact age and cause of death for each passenger. While some passengers are happy to hear they die of old age at the age of 96, for many their predicted age of death is much sooner, propelling them into a journey of self-reflection and existential questioning. They don’t know whether this woman is a little crazy, or if she does possess genuine psychic abilities?

When it appears that some of the predictions have since come true, the media get hold of the story and dub the mystery woman ‘The Death Lady’. Fear escalates for those with an imminent death predicted. Can the passengers from this flight afford to dismiss the information they’ve been given? Is there something they can do to change their destiny? Should they start ticking off their bucket-list as soon as possible?

‘Here One Moment’ follows the lives of the six passengers whose predicted deaths are alarmingly soon, with their lives changed forever by ‘The Death Lady’s’ predictions. Moriarty cleverly explores how each character grapples with this knowledge, questioning their choices, relationships and the very essence of their existence. Their stories are skilfully interwoven with the backstory of ‘The Death Lady’ giving the reader insight into her life before the dramatic events of the plane flight.

A deep dive into human nature and the premise of fate versus freewill, Moriarty has brilliantly constructed a very thought-provoking and intriguing read. ‘Here One Moment’ is perfect for fans of contemporary fiction and those who enjoy stories with a blend of mystery, drama and philosophical questioning.

The following opinion piece was submitted by Barmera-based wine grape grower JASON PERRIN regarding the recent industry senate inquiry...

It’s about growers getting a fair go

I WOULD like to give an important update to our Riverland community as a follow-up to the senate inquiry into the Australian Winegrape Purchases Code of Conduct held at the Renmark Club on 12 December.

At the time of the Renmark hearing, it was the only inquiry location and hearing arranged to that date.

It was a significant honour to have it held in the Riverland, with the recognition it gave our region as the heart of the Australian wine grape industry.

After a phone conversation with the CEO of the Riverina Winegrape Growers Association the previous afternoon, I learnt that while he and others were invited to attend the Renmark inquiry in person, after submitting submissions, the CEO was unable to come, due to compounding issues in their region after a further devastating storm event.

In discussion, while he fully acknowledged the importance of the Renmark senate inquiry, he felt obligated to visit as many of his growers as possible, due to the catastrophes they had gone through.

We all remember the extreme frost events that struck us, and our interstate regions with a vengeance.

As if the estimated destruction of 50 per cent of the Riverina, as stated a few weeks later, was not enough, a storm event sometime after, caused another disaster to parts of that region. Understandably, the CEO’s priorities were to visit his growers, and look to their own backyard. Their wine grape region is now reduced by about 3000 hectares, meaning a significant reduction in their grower base.

The following morning, before the inquiry commenced, I spoke to the Senate Committee secretary, and clearly expressed the disastrous situation across the border.

As the CEO had given permission for me to repeat any parts of our conversations and communications about industry issues, I took the opportunity to ask the secretary to discuss with the Senate Committee the importance of creating a further opportunity for another session of the inquiry, either in Griffith, or in Canberra, if the senators’ busy schedules would allow this.

It was, and still is, my belief that the urgent changes we are looking for are not Riverland specific, but for the benefit of all in our national industry.

As part of what was the largest wine grape region – though no longer, due to low prices, weather devastation and unviability of vineyards – I pushed the view that representatives from that region should be heard by the senate panel to gain a true picture of the industry as it has played out for years across our border.

It is great news therefore, after whatever lobbying by anyone involved, that a second inquiry is to be held in Canberra on 7 February – this Friday.

This gives important witnesses a chance to speak further in person, special timeslots for the ACCC, the Department of Agriculture, and Amanda Dimas representing regional growers through the Riverland Winegrape Growers Association, and representatives from some wineries.

It also shows senate panel members are taking a serious and balanced approach to the current voluntary code, including whether it can be modified and strengthened to serve the interests of both wine maker and grower – maybe with some ‘compulsion’ aspects built in, especially around an expert determination process, or whether a mandatory code is needed.

To summarize the process so far:

- ❑ 18 September: A private hearing of the senate panel and myself on the need for an inquiry.
- ❑ 12 December: A first public inquiry, in Renmark.
- ❑ 7 February: A second inquiry, in Canberra.
- ❑ 28 February: A report on the recommendations.

In making a few further comments, firstly, I have been pressing a case for indicative prices to be released compulsorily on 30 September, starting from this year, as an interim measure until a mandatory code is brought in.

Secondly, I believe the same urgency is required as an interim measure for an expert determination process to be compulsory from 30 September this year.

Growers cannot wait for both of these to be brought in if a mandatory code is approved. That could be a process of several years. Many growers across the regions will not be in business by then.

If winery executives had business common sense, they would see that they have rapidly pushed the grower grape-growing base over the hill, and it is already on an almost irreversible slide.

Is this what corporates want? To ruin us? To set up business in China? To buy cheap wine overseas on a depressed market, and bottle it in the UK to save shipping costs to western markets?

To invest in vineyard development in Denmark with the trend of global warming?

Australian growers have created decades of huge wealth opportunities for wineries, and in recent years, for corporates.

If they knew what ‘sustainability’ actually meant in real life, they should have built and progressed more sustainable business models, valuing the grower in the production chain.

Every winery should pay an extra affordable $50 per tonne on all varieties currently below $500 per tonne, to keep growers in business, and add value to their brand names around the world.

Peanuts, in dollar terms, for the goodwill gained.

How much extra would they profit in sales, marketing the pitch of supporting their growers and keeping them sustainable as part of their business model?

Post Australia Day, think about what they give to this country, or are we now just an agricultural backwater to be squeezed economically until we are in a depression?

The book, The Grapes of Wrath, springs to mind.

A last point that needs addressing.

It was mentioned by one person at a meeting I attended recently that some growers think a mandatory code means higher prices.

It must be stated again, as it has been a number of times already, that a mandatory code does not guarantee higher prices.

But anyone who spouts this red herring as an excuse for not supporting a mandatory code needs to wise up, and get onboard to do growers in the industry a service, and support an industrial progression to rectify many injustices and grey areas that have kept growers in a very bad position for far too long.

There is no code that can be taken straight ‘off the shelf’. If the senate approves a mandatory code, then the essential work begins to decide what needs to be in it, with compulsion, to serve both parties.

As stated, it is crucial that in such a code, is an expert determination process, the final decision being legally binding and fully enforceable by the ACCC.

This is where the opportunity to get fairer prices region by region can be achieved with sound planning.

The concept of a minimum price has been mentioned by some politicians, and stated as difficult and unworkable. The first may be true, the second is not.

Older, long-term growers in SA remember we had a minimum legislated price in this state, based on irrigated and non-irrigated wine grapes, and to a degree, by region.

It was worked out for years without computers, software programs or the internet. It was incorporated in legislation and I was told by a locally based industry leader a number of years ago that it was thrown out and never worked.

I knew that was rubbish based on ignorance, so I had cause to have a Member of the Legislative Council of SA at the time do a ‘fact check’.

He found that the legislation was still there, and I would note that if any person was to read the SA Wine Grape Supply Act of 1991, the Primary Industries Minister still has the power to recommend a grape price for different regions. That is the reality on fact alone.

One last issue that many people might not know, but should give thought to: whether it is a ‘fair go’ or not.

One of the big benefits of being part of that SA Supply Act of 1991 is that it prevents any winery from taking in grapes in South Australia unless they have paid in full for the previous harvest. We have had that here for about 34 years.

Unfortunately, our brother and sister growers interstate do not have this.

There is no similar legislation in NSW, despite their grower association lobbying for a number of years to be protected, to no avail.

Not only have they had years of low prices like us here, they grow lower tonnes, have had tonnage restrictions imposed on them, and have had examples of having to enter a new harvest when they haven’t been paid in full for the previous vintage.

Is that justice, in any shape or form? Is it a fair go?

I would summarise by saying this: How can any state or national wine grape body, or any state or federal politician, have allowed this industry injustice for 34 years?

It’s idealistic maybe, but as an Australian first, and South Australian second, I believe every state and federal politician should pressure the NSW Government to use the SA Grape Supply Act of 1991 as a simple template (and quite separate from the mandatory code issue) and bring in this simple bit of legislation to protect NSW growers.

Members of any union would not tolerate such an injustice. Why should grape growers?

Some justice issues are long overdue for grape growers across all borders, otherwise exploitation will continue to rubber stamp our daily lives, destroy our businesses and our regional communities.

SES issues heatwave warning

FORECASTED heatwave conditions for the Riverland are expected to continue during the rest of the week, with the State Emergency Service (SES) rolling out important recommendations to cope with the intense heat.

The SES issued the warning after the Bureau of Meteorology (BOM) forecasted temperatures of up to 41 degrees for most Riverland areas, with very little-to-no rainfall over the week.

SES is advising Riverlanders to take pro-active steps as the state experiences a prolonged period of extreme heat – with further hot days forecast – particularly with babies and young children, the elderly, pregnant women and people who are already unwell.

South Australia State Emergency Services (SASES) chief of staff Robert Charlton said heat-related illness often caught people unaware.

“Unlike floods, storms or bushfires, extreme heat or heatwaves don’t have visual cues, and this can lead to complacency or lack of preparedness for some people,” he said.

“With many people and organisations resuming their organised sporting activities after the Christmas break, it is important for people to be aware of the risks of heat-related illness, such as dehydration and sunstroke.

“Hot nights, with temperatures above 20C, exacerbate the risk of heat-related illness as our bodies are unable to cool down, so having air conditioners or fans or even just a wet towel applied to the skin, are steps we can take to cool ourselves down.

“Being prepared is the best advice to keep yourself safe. It is also important to regularly check in with family, friends and neighbours to ensure they are doing ok as well.”

- SES recommendations include:
- ☐ Keep cool by staying indoors as much as possible and turn fans and air-conditioners on early in the day to stop the heat from building up in your home.
 - ☐ Make sure you are drinking plenty of water.
 - ☐ Carry a water bottle with you if you go out.
 - ☐ Identify a place in your community, such as a library or shopping centre, where you can go to keep cool.
 - ☐ Never leave children, or pets, alone in a car.
 - ☐ Be prepared for power blackouts.
 - ☐ Young ones, older people and those who are already unwell are most at risk, so check on them regularly.
 - ☐ Make sure your pets and animals have shade and water too.

Mallee sides sting Riverland clubs

RIVERLAND cricket resumed action over the weekend following a competition-wide bye the previous Saturday due to Australia Day, and it proved to be a success for the Mallee-based clubs.

The high-flying Berri were brought down a peg on Saturday afternoon, when the Victorian-based Bushrangers secured a nine-run win at Berri Oval.

Batting first in the tough conditions, Berri had the ball talking, dismissing Mallee for just 110, with Drew Crane the only Bushranger surpassing 20.

Brad Oakley continued his dream season so far with another three-wicket effort, while veteran Wayne Scadden also claimed three.

Chasing 111 in reply, the home side were reeling when openers Martin Sumner and Peter Efthimiou both departed without scoring, as pace bowler Thomas Wurfel snagged two wickets.

Josh Fielke provided some resistance for the home side, top scoring with 32, but Berri struggled for partnerships.

Randall Watson ripped through the tail, finishing with 4/9 for the day in a strong effort for the Bushrangers, who have secured a finals berth.

Elsewhere, a stunning individual effort from Craig Altus helped set up Parilla's win over Renmark North, storming to a 69-run win.

After losing the toss and being sent into bat, Parilla saw early trouble when Haydon Thorpe and Oscar Barrett were dismissed cheaply, leaving Altus with work to do.

However, he responded in due course, crunching his way to 98 in an effort that saw 13 boundaries, while Shilo Dabinett (23), and Leith Dabinett (22) pitched in with handy contributions.

Colin Packer was the pick of the North bowlers with 2/22, while Liam Jackson and Deakin Aston also each recorded two.

Chasing 201 in reply, the Bluetongues were in trouble after losing three early wickets, despite a contribution of 24 from Jackson at the top of the order.

Packer fought hard for a well-made 36, top scoring for the home side, but it was a total too great in the end.

Shilo starred with the ball for the Roosters, finishing the day with 4/8, while Altus also claimed 3/29, putting Parilla into second spot with just three rounds remaining.

B grade action saw a pair of low-scoring games, with Brown's Well and Monash getting over the line.

Out for revenge after the T20 grand final defeat, Brown's Well enjoyed an eight-run win over Loxton in a tight contest.

Electing to bat first, the Cows put 75 on the board, with Carel van der Merwe the dominant batter, hitting 27 unbeaten, with his side removed in just 26 overs.

Chasing an achievable target, Loxton failed to make genuine partnerships, finishing all out for 67 as Lachlan Patterson, Matt Hampel, and Creagh Patterson each took two wickets.

Elsewhere, Monash managed to hold off Waikerie/Ramco, recording a 23-run win on the back of a sensational effort with the ball.

All out for 101, with Kyle Gillespie's 38, and Harmeet Singh's 20 the major highlights, Monash had work to do with the ball.

Young gun Kade Hilton showed how talented he can be, enjoying a five-wicket haul, while Thomas Waanders and Ash Werner each took two.

Flynn Andrew got the Warriors away to a strong start in reply, top scoring with 19, while Waanders' 18 boosted the score, but Waikerie/Ramco were dismissed for just 78.

Gerard forfeited its clash against Renmark North, meaning the finals race is still wide open.

Berri batter Josh Fielke top scored for his team, smashing 32 in what proved to be a disappointing loss for the home side.

BULLDOGS HIT THE COURT: Wunkar netball players have officially started preparations for season 2025, returning to training last week. Getting to work on new courts, Tina Stasinowsky will lead the side, while Krystina Durdin takes on the role of assistant coach. The MVFNL begins on 26 April, with Wunkar hosting Sedan-Cambrai. Skateboarding in Loxton at the Rumble Roadshow

A POPULAR community event showcased professional and amateur skateboarding to Riverland locals.

The Rumble Roadshow provided local kids with the opportunity to try a challenging sport like skateboarding with trained professionals, guided by the Rumble team.

The event featured pro skater demonstrations, interactive skate clinics, autograph sessions, giveaways and an interesting 'best trick jam', open to all skaters.

The event had the support of local artist D'Arcy Savage with his deck painting workshop, motivating kids to paint their own boards, while catering was provided by Little Miss Daisy and the Loxton Rotary Satellite Club.

Lakers return to business as usual

IT was a case of picking up where things left off for Barmera’s division one women’s side on Thursday night, as Riverland basketball resumed its season with a blockbuster at Berri Stadium.

Following an incredible grand final victory the previous season, Barmera is once again the team to beat in 2024/25, and its performance against Berri proved why.

In a top-of-the-table clash, the Lakers and Blazers battled through a relatively even first half, before it was the visiting side who took full control in the third term.

Barmera poured in 18 points to nine, extending the lead out to 18, and failed to look back from there, despite Berri’s efforts to trim the lead back to nine upon full time.

It was normal service resumed for Chelsea Wutke, leading the scoring with 11, while Khaleisha Barnett finished with 10, and duo Jemma Kassulke and Lacey Hill each recorded nine.

Bella Gates gave Blazers fans something to cheer about with 20 points to her name, while Mackenzie Pitt continues to show why she is an exciting prospect, putting in 10.

Elsewhere, a Bailey Hahn-inspired Loxton side returned to the season with a crushing 49-point win in Waikerie.

Hahn dominated across the entire night in a 35-point display that featured four three pointers, while Kiara Harman (18), and Mackella Hogan (11) both fought hard.

Sienna Hyde reached 14 for the Warriors, but with the margin out to 22 by half time, and extended to 33 at the final break, it proved to be a task too great for the home side.

Meanwhile, division one men’s basketball also sprung back into action, and it proved to be a successful evening for the Supercats.

Battling it out against the Warriors,

Loxton held the lead at every break to set up the eight-point victory, in what was a relatively even contest.

Duo Hunter Westbrook and Jasper Hutchinson were the key pieces for Loxton, each finishing with 17, while Lucas Warnett reached 12.

For the Warriors, Kieran Hahn gave his opponents some questions, finishing with 17 points, while Reily Fridd recorded 16.

Elsewhere, it was a thriller in Berri, with the Lakers managing to squeeze their way to a three-point victory.

Barmera managed to hold off a fast-finishing Blazers side, scoring freely from the tip off, racing to a seven-point lead at the first change.

Riley Haigh was the key performer for the Lakers, recording 19 points, while Connor Kruger (17), and Mitch Wellington (16) were crucial.

Trequan Rudd-Morfaw showed why he is arguably the most exciting player in the competition, scoring 26 points in an effort that featured three triples.

Heath Campbell’s 17, and Harrison Campbell’s 14 points also kept Berri in touch, but the visitors managed to hold on.

The victory shifts Barmera into fourth place on the ladder, while Loxton’s win takes it to the top of the tree.

This week’s division one men’s contests see Renmark return to action with a trip to Barmera, while Berri hosts Loxton in a top-of-the-table clash.

Division one women’s action sees Barmera at home to Waikerie, while Berri will be at home for the second week running, this time against Loxton.

Meanwhile, this weekend will see the return of the Annual Junior Riverland Basketball Carnival, happening across the weekend at Berri Stadium.

A total of 80 teams are set to take the court across the weekend’s event, eight of which are from the Riverland, while under 12s, under 14s, and under 16s have differing divisions in each age group.

A full wrap of the weekend’s event will be in the 12 February edition of The Murray Pioneer.

NORTH SET TO GO: Loxton North has welcomed back a pair of favourite sons to its 2025 coaching rinks, with the Riverland Football Season a little more than two months away. Final four decided for Saturday pennants

THE final four for the Riverland bowls Saturday division one pennants competition are officially locked in, following the final round of the home and away season last weekend.

With the minor premiership already sewn up, Berri was given the opportunity to take the week off, and an intriguing pair of results occurred.

Barmera survived an almighty scare in Loxton, taking out the match by just one shot in a thrilling match.

Andy Gapco was the only Barmera player to skipper his side to a winning rink, to the tune of 12 shots, ultimately creating the separation in the match.

The Lakesiders will this week travel to Berri, battling it out against the reigning premiers for an opportunity to play in the grand final, with the loser forced to take the preliminary final path.

Renmark got the better of Waikerie on home turf, scoring a 15-shot win to secure its finals spot, with the same match fixtured for this weekend.

Played in the warm conditions in Renmark, the home side took out two of the rinks, with Matthew Lacey's four making the biggest impact of the day.

Lacey skippered his side to a 17-shot victory, putting a significant margin on the scoreboard, as

Kym Schulz's quartet also tasted victory. Renmark and Waikerie will face off this Saturday afternoon in Berri once again, with the winner to advance to the preliminary final, and the loser eliminated from season 2024/25.

There was some late season joy for The Lawns, avoiding the wooden spoon with its second win of the season, defeating Loxton RSL by seven shots at home.

Final Four: Monash, Barmera, Berri, Lyrup

Musical chairs for Wednesday pennants' top four

DESPITE the final week of the Riverland bowls division one Wednesday pennants competition arriving, the top four is yet to be determined.

Although Berri locked in the minor premiership in recent weeks, with Barmera following closely behind, the final two spots can still be jumbled.

It would require a major twist to stop Waikerie from missing the finals, meaning Monash, The Lawns, and Loxton are all hoping to secure fourth place.

Loxton made a statement, and kept its season alive, with a gritty five-shot win on the road over Monash.

One rink victory was all the visitors required to secure maximum points, with Lynn Kimber's four getting past Julie John's team, setting up the margin differential.

Loxton will play host to Berri this week, meaning it would need to defeat the top side, and have results fall its way, but this win will install a sense of belief.

Berri made a statement to fellow challenger Barmera in a council clash, pushing past the Lakesiders by 20 shots under the roof.

Although only taking out two of the rinks, Berri's Claire Eichenberger skippered her side to a 13-shot win to help set up the game.

Barmera has a golden opportunity to put a dent in neighbouring town Monash's finals hopes, when the two meet at the Lakeside.

Waikerie all but secured its place in the finals series with the division's biggest winning margin of the day, getting past The Lawns by 36 shots.

Under the dome, the home side delivered a rink sweep throughout the day in a comprehensive effort, which included a 25-shot victory from Jenny Johns' four against Bette Symonds' quartet.

The Lawns are one of the likeliest sides to leap into the final four, when it takes on Renmark on home turf in a local derby.

While results would need to fall its way, The Lawns face a Renmark side staring down the barrel of a last-placed finish, with just three wins to its name for the season.

Elsewhere, a contest between bottom sides Renmark and Loxton RSL in Renmark was taken out by the visiting side, to the tune of 16 shots.

Riverland bowls finals will be played throughout this week.

Waikerie and Renmark will face off this afternoon in the midweek triples competition.

It comes down to this for the midweek triples

A GRANDSTAND finish to the Riverland bowls midweek triples competition is all set up, following a wild Wednesday of results last week.

Just two points separate Renmark Green from second-placed Waikerie, meaning the battle between the pair this afternoon at the Renmark Bowling Club will determine the winner of the competition.

The wild week started when Waikerie lost its spot at the top of the ladder, following a shock loss to Barmera under the dome.

In a match where the rinks were split, Barmera claimed a one-shot victory, largely thanks to an eight-shot win from Andy Gapco's three.

Despite Waikerie's loss, Renmark Green were largely unable to capitalise on the ladder, finishing level with Loxton White.

Renmark Green completed the match with more points following three rink victories, but the draw was brought about following an 11-shot win from Gary Cockshell's three against David Leedle's triple.

Elsewhere, despite a difficult campaign, there was some late season success for Lyrup, recording an 11-shot victory at home against the Barmera Pelicans.

Lyrup currently sits in second last, but took home three of the rinks to set up the victory, including an 11-shot win from the triple skippered by Lou Recchia against Peter Thompson's group.

The Lawns are set to finish the season in third place, following a 27-shot win against Berri Blue in what was a comprehensive display.

Sweeping the rinks, The Lawns were on song on home turf, highlighted by a 17-shot victory from Malcolm Inglis' team over Jack Centofanti's three.

There was also late season joy for Loxton Red, defeating The Lawns Red by eight shots on the road, further cementing the hosts' last-placed season finish.

This afternoon's contest between Renmark Green and Waikerie will start at 1:30pm, with a big crowd expected.

Junior tennis returned to the Riverland over the weekend, in what was an exciting round of action. PHOTOS: Supplied

Action packed weekend as juniors return

FOLLOWING a staggered resumption to the Riverland tennis 2024/25 season, followed by a week off due to the long weekend, a full fixture was fielded last weekend.

Senior tennis, which continues to be played on Friday nights sees reigning premiers Cobdogla firm up as premiership favourites again, continuing strong form with a win over Renmark at home.

In what was a tight battle throughout, Cobdogla showed class largely throughout the singles matches, winning three.

Sam Butterworth, who also tasted success in the doubles on one occasion, proved to be a strong competitor, as did Cohen Battams.

Ben Dring and Abbas Qambari fought valiantly for the visiting side, but Cobdogla ultimately saw a two-rubber win.

Elsewhere an all-Loxton battle between Loxton Yellow and Loxton White went the way of the Yellow team, claiming the match by four rubbers.

It was an undefeated evening from Yellow’s Lucas Cockshell, sweeping his way through both the doubles and singles that set up the win for his side.

Young gun Cooper Kruger and Andrew Waters combined well in their doubles fixtures, but their side was ultimately outclassed.

Five rounds of Riverland tennis remain in season 2024/25, with the race to the finals well-and-truly alive.

B grade softball action heats up

IT is proving to be an exciting finish to the 2024/25 Riverland softball season, and with just four rounds remaining until the finals series, the race to the finals is on.

Although the A grade match between Loxton and Berri was forfeited, eyes quickly turned to the B grade, where Cobdogla enjoyed a strong win.

Cobdogla piled on the runs, finishing with 20 in total as Monica Haaja and Chase Gibbon both performed strongly.

Berri, defeated by 12 runs, managed eight in total, with Marley Fridd and Vanessa Wade both named among the best in a valiant effort.

Bragging rights were on offer in the C grade, with Loxton Green and Loxton Blue facing off, but it proved to be a largely one-sided affair in favour of Blue.

Loxton Blue found runs through Alex Francis and Sienna Johnson, while Macey Paull, Gracie Wagner, and Max Lawson tried hard for the Green affiliate, scoring four in total.

Elsewhere, it was a successful day for Renmark, smashing Cobdogla by seven runs, finishing the afternoon with 14 to its total.

The Angels were inspired by strong performances from Bree McAlister, and Paige Seekamp, while Mackenzie Obst fought hard for Cobdogla.

A grade action is set to return this

Saturday, with Berri taking on Sunraysia at Glassey Park in what should be an exciting affair.

FEBRUARY update

Hi to all Adelaide Crows Supporters in the Riverland.

Our new year is commencing with positivity, and we look forward to seeing the new team on the fields in the months ahead.

Firstly, the local Riverland group held its first meeting for 2025 last month and are planning for the first 16 games on the calendar. These 16 games are regulated by the AFL, but may suit the local group to organise visiting trips to Adelaide Oval.

Trips to the Adelaide Oval will be via carpooling this coming football season, as bus hiring is becoming expensive for average members.

A newsletter to local members will be available in the coming weeks., which will provide a suggested calendar for members to choose from.

Local events being organised will be fundraising events, including bingo events, game screenings, and day trips.

The first event organised will be a Members Day, at the Cobdogla Club, on Sunday 23 February. This event will be for members to meet each other, and get us ready for the first game, which will be a day trip for round 1, at Adelaide Oval, against St Kilda.

Members are encouraged to bring a friend hoping they might join the Riverland group.

The luncheon, plus one drink, is free for current members and for non-members a fee of $5 will apply. Raffle tickets will be available.

Also, an Irish tipping calendar/ paperwork will also be available for those who show interest in participating. This again will cost each entry, which is $10.

At Members Day, a calendar of the year will be available. The calendar will cover day trips, local screening of games, and bingo events, which members can show their interest to participate in the 2025 AFL Crows events.

The Riverland Crows Supporters Group would like to see all interested persons attend Members Day, at Cobdogla Club, on 23 February. A guest speaker from the Adelaide Crows will be present on the day. That person is membership operations officer Holly Leonard Robinson.

The group also wishes the Adelaide team all the best for the 2025 Season.

Go Crows.

CROWS CHEER SQUAD

Weekend racing hailed a success

LACHLAN DAND

IT is one of the most popular weekends on the Riverland calendar, exemplified by another strong crowd piling in to Renmark to watch the iconic Dinghy Derby on Sunday.

In what was a highly competitive weekend, doubled by the Dash 4 Cash on Friday night, Riverland Dinghy Club president Scott Jenke said the weekend was a great success, despite the scorching conditions.

“One of our biggest struggles is getting all of the volunteers, and when the weather is warm that gets a bit harder, but we did have enough out there this year,” Mr Jenke said.

“We had a lot of competitors out there, and everything went really smooth, and it was one of the cleanest runs we’ve seen for a long time.

“We had a lot of new racers but they managed to get around the courses, and we only had a few yellow flags, but they all got through unscathed.

“This year we managed to get the interstate racers back, and we had so many travelling over which is great to see and they’re all settling back in now that we’ve had a few years without floods and Covid.”

Temperatures soared on Sunday afternoon, rising to 41C at one stage, but Mr Jenke said the crowd still enjoyed the weekend’s action.

“It was a huge crowd all weekend, and as soon as the temperature started to drop on Friday night the crowd flowed in and we had the food vendors do a great trade,” he said.

“We had the VIP section out on the lawn on Friday too and that was full at all times, so the crowd were responding to everything really well.

“Whilst Sunday was hot conditions, we had spectators sitting under the shade in the marquee, and the drivers pushed on.

“I think that’s the biggest thing that attracts people, because we still are putting on really good racing on Sunday and so people really value the work that they do.”

Records were broken throughout the entirety of the weekend, showing the strength of the competition on offer.

Kodi Morena and Douglas Mowbray took out the Dinghy Derby for the second year in a row, while local competitor Jeremy Morrison exemplified the hard work he has put in.

“Seeing someone like Jeremy who is a local, and has been a consummate professional in the standard class move up, we see him move to the rookies’ class and finish really well,” Mr Jenke said.

“I said to him stepping up isn’t easy, but he did really well and now he has an outstanding achievement to go with it.

“Seeing Kodi and Doug go back-to-back was really cool, and it was really close all day and we were only seeing one-to-three second gaps all day.

“We have a lot of obstacles set up, but being in the river you have to deal with the elements that come up.

“Runner-up Scott Pogorecki paid credit to the battle they had all day, but both of those two had massive smiles once they got out of the boat.”

Mr Jenke said he is looking forward to the remainder of the season, now that the opening two races are in the books.

“We’ve had two tough periods, but we’re coming out of that now, and seeing the boost it gave the town was massive too,” Mr Jenke said.

“You have people coming for as long as five days to two weeks into the area, and that really shows how good the club is going at the moment.

“If you’ve got that enthusiasm on the younger people in the lower grades, and the same energy for the older guys it shows that you’re in a really good place as a sport.”

It’s back-to-back delight for Kodi and Doug

FOR the second consecutive year, Kodi Morena and Douglas Mowbray are the kings of the Riverland Dinghy Derby.

In sweltering conditions, the duo claimed a tight victory in Sunday’s prestigious event, racing through the course in 1:10:23, almost six seconds clear of runners-up Scott Pogorecki and Nathan Wilson, while Andrew Kelckhoven and Ace Pratt rounded out the top three.

Impressively, Morena and Mowbray bettered their winning time of the previous season, hitting 1:10:32 in the 2024 event.

The iconic race was the closest of the day, while Jeremy Morrison and Riley Schwarz claimed the 30hp Rookies class ahead of Nick Gray and Luke Sharrad.

Friday night saw a healthy crowd in what was also an exciting evening of racing in the Dash 4 Cash, with Andrew Kelckhoven and Ace Pratt getting over the finish line the quickest.

The pair finished with a time of 53.96 – ahead of Morena and Mowbray on 54.28.

One of the most exciting races of the night was the 30hp Standard class, where Ryan and Dan Penley, with a time of 63.63, finished ahead of Sean Peterson and Sophie Lampard on 63.64.

Twice the puppy love

THE spotlight is once again on rural Australia in this gorgeous homegrown series showcasing the bonds shared by graziers and their working dogs on farms across the country.

There's an exciting twist this time around: while the first season followed five kelpie puppies and the second a litter of adorable border collies, the third instalment puts both to the test – comparing their strengths and weaknesses and highlighting the work each breed is best suited to.

This week, the 12-week-old puppies – all from champion muster dog bloodlines – settle into their new homes as the trainers get to know their unique personalities and introduce them to life on the land.

The sweeping drone shots of grassy plains, sunburnt paddocks and dusty dirt roads add charm to the series, but it's the trainers and their clever pooches who are the stars here.

In Kaniva, Victoria, Kim (pictured) is mourning the loss of her favourite dog, so connection comes first with goofy kelpie Banjo's training.

It's back to the drawing board in Kingaroy, Queensland, where 17-year-old Nathan finds that usually carefree border collie pup Chief is scared of the rake he normally uses in training his working dogs.

As they look ahead to the pups' first assessment, training hurdles, personal challenges and teething problems abound.

BIG MIRACLES RETURNS

THE ground-breaking docu-series Big Miracles returns to offer viewers an intimate look into some of Australia's most remarkable stories of IVF and infertility on Wednesday 5 February, at 9pm on Channel 9 and 9Now.

In this emotionally charged new season, narrated again by Lisa McCune, a light will shine on an issue that affects millions worldwide, with one-in-six couples struggling with infertility each year in Australia alone.

We will meet new singles and couples hoping to overcome impossible odds and witness the ultimate story of selflessness and hope involving two sisters, one born without a uterus, the other prepared to give her sister and best friend the greatest gift of all.

When this extraordinary series began filming four years ago, we met the first brave participants willing to share the most intimate moments of their lives. A couple in their late 40s, Sheila and Tyson, captured hearts from the beginning and finally, in the new season premiere, after much heartache and hope, they will welcome their miracle baby. But it won't be easy.

Big Miracles will also follow hopeful mums who have decided to go it alone, including TV personality Angie Kent. Despite facing multiple fertility-related conditions such as polycystic ovary syndrome and endometriosis that will challenge her fertility, Angie is determined to have a baby on her own.

Every day the medical technology in and around IVF offers more possibilities to those battling inconceivable odds, like returning couples Ilina and Nick, who are faced with one of the most difficult fertility cases doctors have seen, and Christie and Perry, who spent two years struggling with unexplained infertility before receiving a positive pregnancy result in season two.

Providing unprecedented access to fertility clinics across Australia, Big Miracles highlights the dedication and expertise of the doctors, scientists and nurses helping hopeful parents achieve their dreams.

The inspiring new journeys in season three track couples including Alicia and Chris and Kaiti and Sally, who are hoping to overcome the heartbreak of multiple miscarriages, as well as single Anna, who is embarking on a solo road to motherhood with the support of her girlfriends.

In the final episode, a moving wrap-up will revisit all the beautiful stories told throughout the three seasons and the courageous individuals who have shared their struggles, dreams and heartbreaks. It's a celebration of the miracles that can be created through love and determination with the help of the wonderful world of modern fertility medicine.

Filmed over the course of four years and documenting the physical, financial and emotional road to parenthood, this powerful series demonstrates the unyielding resilience of the human spirit.

Big Miracles Season Three is produced by Ronde Media for the 9Network. Post, digital and visual effects are supported by Screen NSW.
